SIGNS NOW PRESENTED CERTIFICATE OF CONGRATULATIONS FROM USDA RURAL DEVELOPMENT

Morris Westfall, Missouri State Director for USDA Rural Development, presented Tim Schaumburg with Signs Now a Certificate of Congratulations for being selected as the Rural Development Small Business Contractor of the Year. The award was presented in Washington, DC headquarters earlier in the month.

Westfall said, “Missouri Rural Development nominated Signs Now for the national award based on their quality products, the promptness of meeting agency requirements and the manner in which they operate the business.”

Schaumburg is the operating partner of Adlama Enterprises D/B/A Signs Now #172. They provide indoor and outdoor permanent signs on wood, aluminum, pvc and foamcore; trade show displays, trade show graphics and other 4 color graphics; vehicle graphics and magnetics; special project laser engraving on plastic, wood, and acrylic materials; laser engraved corporate awards; rubber stamps; business cards; name tags; banners of all kinds and digital printing.

Signs Now provides large Mock Checks and other digitally integrated signs and promotional items used by Rural Development in connection with program outreach initiatives and program delivery. The agency provides supplemental financing in rural areas for housing, community facilities, businesses and infrastructure for an average of $400 million across Missouri. Over 150 media events are conducted to celebrate the funding of various community projects. Signs Now has provided quality products to Rural Development for these events.

Westfall added, “Schaumburg and his staff always provide personal attention in delivering professional services. We compliment them on receiving this national award as Small Business Contractor of the Year.”

“Committed to the future of rural communities.”

“USDA is an equal opportunity provider, employer and lender.”
