New Construction Spectacular!

Lenders who originate interim construction loans and are in need of affordable long term financing can consider Guaranteed loans as a viable option. Lenders will be required to retain evidence that the home was built to certified plans and specs and construction inspections were performed throughout construction. There is no need for prior review or approval of new construction documents by Rural Development. Below is an outline of the acceptable options lenders may use to document their files. Further detail can also be found in Administrative Notice (AN) 4313, located at www.rurdev.usda.gov/regs. A one year builder's warranty is required for all new construction projects, unless an approved ten year insured warranty is available.

Certified Plans and Specs: Lenders may select one option

1. Building permit issued by a local jurisdiction*
2. Certificate of Occupancy issued by a local jurisdiction*
3. Certification from qualified individual or organization (architect, engineer, code official, etc.) that states reviewed plans and specs comply with applicable development standards. RD Form 1924-25 "Plan Certification" may be utilized but is not mandatory.

Evidence of Construction Inspections: Lenders may select one option

1. Certificate of Occupancy issued by a local jurisdiction* that performs at least 3 construction inspections
2. Copies of 3 construction inspections:
 - A. Footings and foundation are ready to be poured, prior to back filling
 - B. Shell is complete but plumbing, electrical, and mechanical work are still exposed
 - C. Final inspection of completed work prior to occupancy (the appraisal may be submitted as evidence of final inspection)
3. Final Inspection and 10 year insured builder warranty plan acceptable to RD

* If this method is used, the State Director must determine whether local communities or jurisdictions qualify to use this form of "acceptable evidence" under RD Instruction 1924-A, section 1924.5(f)(1)(iii)(C) (2).

When entering an exact address in the "Pin Point Address On U.S. Map" option, you may receive an "Unable to Determine" analysis. This does not mean the property is ineligible for Guaranteed financing. There are many reasons an address may not be located. Examples include: misspelled street, new construction address, website is offline, or perhaps the removal of "Street, Avenue, Lane" could make a difference. The bottomline: Call your Rural Development office for assistance is locating the address before you assume it is ineligible.
