

We guide the future of our rural communities.

Sidney, Nebraska, stays focused on its youngest rural residents. New economic developments brought a baby boom, while the lack of child care facilities brought Kathy Hruska, a USDA Rural Development Specialist, to her community's rescue. Crossing program lines allowed her to facilitate a Community Facility Direct loan project to fund Here Wee Grow Day Care. Joining efforts with local leaders and concerned parents, Hruska and her staff help maintain this rural community's success by ensuring the nurture and care of Sidney's future generations.
