USDA RURAL DEVELOPMENT ANNOUNCES $15.6 MILLION IN BROADBAND COMMUNITY CONNECT GRANTS

WASHINGTON, July 29, 2008 - Agriculture Under Secretary for Rural Development Thomas C. Dorr today announced the selection of 25 communities in 16 states to receive $15.6 million in broadband community connect grants.

"These funds will provide a critical link between essential community facilities in areas where no broadband service currently exists," said Dorr. "The grants will be used to improve public safety and enable residents to pursue on-line educational opportunities."

The Community Connect program provides grants to establish broadband service in rural communities. The grants may be used to deploy broadband transmission service to residents, businesses and critical community facilities such as police and first responders. They also may be used to construct and operate community centers that provide free broadband access to community residents.

The community of Applegate, Mich., has been selected to receive a $223,862 Rural Development grant to use high-speed Internet to enhance fire, police and ambulance services and to establish distance learning and telemedicine services. Residents will be able to use free Internet service for two years at the Applegate Community Center.

The Washoe Tribe of Nevada and California was selected to receive a grant of $464,200 to provide broadband service to the community of Woodfords, Calif. Broadband will be available to elementary and high school students. In addition, Brigham Young University's distance learning programs will be available to students seeking to complete their degree requirements. In Pawnee, Texas, a $621,610 Rural Development grant will help provide free broadband service for two years to town offices, the police and volunteer fire departments, Pawnee Elementary School, and the new Pawnee Community Center, which will offer continuing adult education classes.

Committed to the future of rural communities.

Funding of individual award recipients is contingent upon their meeting the conditions of the award agreement. The complete list of grant recipients appears below.

USDA Rural Development's mission is to increase economic opportunity and improve the quality of life for rural residents. Rural Development has invested more than $90 billion since 2001 for equity and technical assistance to finance and foster growth in homeownership, business development, and critical community and technology infrastructure. More than 1.7 million jobs have been created or saved through these investments. Further information on rural programs is available at a local USDA Rural Development office or by visiting USDA's web site at <http://www.rurdev.usda.gov>.
