Mineola, Texas, March 10, 2004— Bryan Daniel, state director, Texas USDA Rural Development announces today that Fouke Water Supply Corporation received a $2,790,000 loan and a $900,000 grant through the agency's Rural Utilities Service Water and Waste Disposal Loan and Grant program. "One of the goals of USDA Rural Development is to provide water and wastewater treatment programs that target public health benefits and provide economic opportunities to America's rural communities," said Daniel. "Rural residents can utilize our programs to help provide essential public services that will enhance their quality of life."

The funds will be used to add a 320-gallon per minute (GPM) water well at Indian Mound, and to expand the distribution system by constructing 12 inch, 8 inch, and 6 inch water mains enabling the system to serve all customers during peak periods. The population of the area served is 1,844.

In Fiscal Year 2003, $64.4 million of loan and grant assistance was infused into 71 projects and 137,451 rural Texas households. USDA Rural Development's water and wastewater program is designed to bring fresh, clean drinking water and sanitary, environmentally sound sewage facilities to rural America's 53 million residents. Loans and grants are available to rural communities with fewer than 10,000 residents. Public bodies, corporations operated on a nonprofit basis, and Indian tribes, that are unable to obtain credit from other sources at reasonable rates and terms, are eligible for assistance.
